STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

The influx of displaced persons after the partition of the country in 1947 resulted in the population of Delhi doubling itself in two years, rising from 7 lakhs in 1946-47 to 14½ lakhs in 1948-49. Since then also, for a variety of reasons, the population has increased at a rapid rate and at present it is estimated to be of the order of 26 lakhs. This abnormal rise in the population has inevitably brought a corresponding growth in the student population seeking admission to colleges. The number of constituent and affiliated colleges of the University of Delhi, has increased from 7 in 1947-48 to 31 in 1963-64, and the enrolment of students in the University and its colleges from 4,232 to 28,000 in the same period. The number of students seeking admission to colleges is increasing by about 2,000 every year with the result that the problem of finding additional accommodation for the increasing number of students each year has assumed serious proportions.

2. In 1960, the University Grants Commission observed that the Delhi University was growing into an unwieldy and cumbersome institution and that it would be desirable to set up another University in New Delhi to enable the present University of Delhi to arrest dilution of its academic and research standards and to develop on its own distinctive lines as envisaged at the time of its inception.

3. The University of Delhi also strongly supported the proposal both on administrative and academic grounds. The University authorities emphasised that because of the long distances and the mounting enrolment, not only had the University become too large to be managed efficiently but its academic standards were also in danger of serious deterioration. They, therefore, strongly recommended that a new University should be set up in Delhi as early as possible.

4. The growth of new knowledge in recent years and the significant advancement of learning in various academic fields all over the world have brought into bold relief the inadequacy of the present arrangements in the country. It is being increasingly realised that the country's social, economic and cultural development depends in a large measure upon the quality, variety and extent of higher education and research in the Universities.

5. In order to make adequate provision for the large and increasing student population of Delhi for education of the highest quality and for the advancement of knowledge and research, it is proposed to establish a University in New Delhi to be named after the late Jawaharlal Nehru. The proposed University will embody a unique synthesis of the humanities, the sciences and technology worthy of the great son of India after whom it is being named and thus perpetuate the memory of the many-sided genius of the late Prime Minister.

6. The present Bill seeks to give effect to the above proposal.

M. C. CHAGLA.

NEW DELHI;
The 18th December, 1964.

FINANCIAL MEMORANDUM

Clause 3 of the Bill contemplates the establishment of a University in Delhi by the name of Jawaharlal Nehru University. Clause 4 of the Bill specifies the various powers of the University, clause 8 deals with the officers of the University and clause 9 with the authorities thereof. The University will provide facilities for the Post Graduate teaching in Humanities and Sciences. It will, therefore, be necessary to make provision for acquisition and development of land required for the various buildings of the University. The University buildings will comprise administrative blocks, Humanities and Science blocks, library, staff quarters, hostels and other miscellaneous buildings like convocation hall etc. On the basis of our experience of the expenditure incurred at the Delhi University and the likely stress on Post Graduate Scientific and Technological studies at the proposed University, it is anticipated that the total capital expenditure will be about Rs. 9 crores. The ultimate recurring expenditure on the basis that it will cater to a population of 14,000 students will be about one crore of rupees per annum. Preliminary expenditure will be incurred during the Third Plan.

2. Appropriate funds required for the next and subsequent financial years for this project will be provided in the budgets of the Ministry of Education.

3. It will be necessary to incur expenditure directly on the University in the beginning for such purposes as acquisition and development of land, construction of essential administrative and academic buildings and appointment of nucleus staff. This is estimated to be Rs. 3 crores. This will be done through appropriate grants-in-aid to the new University from the Consolidated Fund. Thereafter the University will be entitled to get grants from the University Grants Commission.

MEMORANDUM REGARDING DELEGATED LEGISLATION

Sub-clause (1) of clause 14 of the Bill empowers the Central Government to frame the first Statutes and the matters in respect of which the Central Government may frame Statutes relate, inter alia to:

- (i) the constitution, powers and duties of the authorities and other bodies of the University and other matters connected therewith;
- (ii) the procedure of appointment, terms and conditions of service and the powers and duties of the employees of the University;
- (iii) the administration of the University, the establishment and abolition of colleges, institutions, etc., the grant and withdrawal of affiliation and recognition to them, the institution of Fellowships, Awards and the like and the conferment of degrees, diplomas and certificates.

2. These matters pertain to procedure, form or detail and as such, the delegation of legislative power is of a normal character.

II

Amendment of section 12

4. In section 12 of the principal Act, in sub-section (3), after the words "the appropriate Government", the words "or an officer authorised in this behalf by the appropriate Government" shall be inserted.

Substitution of new section for section 25C.

5. For section 25C of the principal Act, the following section shall be substituted, namely:—

Right of workmen laid off for compensation.

"25C. Whenever a workman (other than a badli workman or a casual workman) whose name is borne on the muster rolls of an industrial establishment and who has completed not less than one year of continuous service under an employer is laid off, whether continuously or intermittently, he shall be paid by the employer for all days during which he is so laid off, except for such weekly holidays as may intervene, compensation which shall be equal to fifty per cent. of the total of the basic wages and dearness allowance that would have been payable to him had he not been so laid off:

Provided that if during any period of twelve months, a workman is so laid off for more than forty-five days, no such compensation shall be payable in respect of any period of the lay off after the expiry of the first forty-five days, if there is an agreement to that effect between the workman and the employer:

Provided further that it shall be lawful for the employer in any case falling within the foregoing proviso to retrench the workman in accordance with the provisions contained in section 25F at any time after the expiry of the first forty-five days of the lay off and when he does so, any compensation paid to the workman for having been laid off during the preceding twelve months may be set off against the compensation payable for retrenchment.

Explanation.—"Badli workman" means a workman who is employed in an industrial establishment in the place of another workman whose name is borne on the muster rolls of the establishment, but shall cease to be regarded as such for the purposes of this section, if he has completed one year of continuous service in the establishment.”.

6. In section 29 of the principal Act, after the words “which may extend to six months, or with fine, or with both”, the words “and where the breach is a continuing one, with a further fine which may extend to two hundred rupees for every day during which the breach continues after the conviction for the first” shall be inserted. Amendment of section 29

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

In order to simplify the existing procedure for handling disputes in respect of the Air Corporations, it is considered necessary to bring the Indian Airlines and Air India Corporations within the jurisdiction of the central sphere as in the case of some other corporations of all India importance such as the Agricultural Refinance Corporation, the Deposit Insurance Corporation, etc.

2. In construing the scope of industrial dispute, Courts have taken the view that a dispute between an employer and an individual workman cannot per se be an industrial dispute, but it may become one if it is taken up by a union or a number of workmen making a common cause with the aggrieved individual workman. In view of this, cases of individual dismissals and discharges cannot be taken up for conciliation or arbitration or referred to adjudication under the Industrial Disputes Act, unless they are sponsored by a union or a number of workmen. It is now proposed to make the machinery under the Act available in such cases.

3. Section 25C of the Act provides that a workman (who has completed not less than one year of continuous service) on being laid off, is entitled to receive compensation upto a maximum period of forty-five days during the course of any twelve months. Where, however, the period of lay off after the expiry of the first forty-five days comprises continuous periods of one week or more, the workman is to be paid compensation for all the days comprised in every such subsequent period of lay off, unless there is an agreement to the contrary between the workman and the employer. This provision is open to abuse inasmuch as workmen could be denied lay off compensation by being made to work for some days in each week after the first forty-five days of lay off. With a view to prevent such an abuse, it is now considered necessary to make a provision that lay off compensation would become payable for all the days of lay off beyond the first forty-five days, whether the period is continuous for a week or not.

4. Section 29 of the Act provides for the imposition of a penalty for breach of a settlement or an award, which may be imprisonment for a term which may extend to six months, or fine, or both. There is no provision for enhanced penalty in the event of continued breach of settlements or awards with the result that some unscrupulous employers are able to successfully thwart the implementation of settlements or awards by paying a fine once, which may be far less than what the obligation would otherwise entail. Consequently, the workmen are unable to get the benefits flowing from the award though the employer might have been convicted for the breach. Thus, the absence of provisions for deterrent penalties for continued breach of settlements and awards is acting as an impediment in the way of implementation of settlements and awards, and it is, therefore, now proposed to make a suitable provision for the imposition of punishment in case of a continuing breach of a settlement or an award after conviction for the first breach.

5. Many of the above proposals have also received the approval of the Standing Labour Committee at its 21st session.

6. The present Bill seeks to amend the Industrial Disputes Act to give effect to the above proposals and opportunity has also been availed of to make two other amendments of procedural nature.

NEW DELHI;
The 16th December, 1964.

D. SANJIVAYYA.

FINANCIAL MEMORANDUM

Clause 3 of the Bill seeks to provide that individual disputes regarding dismissals, discharges, etc., should be deemed to be industrial disputes for the purposes of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947. This is likely to increase the number of industrial disputes and cases for adjudication to a very small extent. It is proposed to manage, as far as possible, the probable increase in work-load with the existing staff of the Industrial Relations Machinery and the Labour Courts and Tribunals. Hence, the provision is not likely to involve any appreciable additional expenditure immediately or in the near future.

III

BILL No. XXXIV OF 1964

A Bill further to amend the Employees' Provident Funds Act, 1952.

BE it enacted by Parliament in the Fifteenth Year of the Republic of India as follows:—

1. (1) This Act may be called the Employees' Provident Funds (Amendment) Act, 1964. Short title and commencement.

(2) It shall be deemed to have come into force on the 24th day of November, 1964.

19 of 1952. 2. In section 2 of the Employees' Provident Funds Act, 1952, in sub-clause (i) of clause (a), after the words "a controlled industry," the words "or in relation to an establishment having departments or branches in more than one State," shall be inserted. Amendment of section 2.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

Under the Employees' Provident Funds Act, 1952, which provides for the institution of compulsory provident funds for employees in factories and other establishments, where an establishment already provides benefits in the nature of provident fund or other retirement benefits to its employees, not less favourable than those provided under the Act and the Scheme framed thereunder, the establishment may be exempted from the operation of the Scheme subject to certain conditions. Such exemption is granted by the Central Government in cases of establishments belonging to, or under the control of, the Central Government or connected with a railway, major port, mine, oil-field or controlled industry and by the State Governments in other cases. It is considered that where an establishment consists of departments or branches located in different States, the power to grant exemption should be exercised by the Central Government. This is necessary for the sake of uniformity and convenience of all concerned. It is accordingly proposed to amend the definition of the term "appropriate Government" given in section 2(a) of the Act. As this power has already been exercised by the Central Government in some urgent cases, it is proposed to give retrospective effect to this amendment.

2. The Bill seeks to give effect to the above proposal.
